STANLEY[®]

Access Technologies

STANLEY[®] Access Technologies is the North American industry leader in automatic doors. Since 1931, their heritage, sizeable geographic footprint, passion for innovation and low total cost of ownership makes STANLEY[®] as a first choice. STANLEY Access Technologies is a division of STANLEY Security, which is a provider of integrated security solutions defining the future of the security industry.

STANLEY[®] Access Technologies offers comprehensive service and maintenance programs that are customizable to meet the needs of your business or organization. They take pride in their role as the original manufacturer of automatic doors, and they have remained the recognized leader in the industry through dependability, visionary thinking and constant innovation.

STANLEY understands the need for low-cost ownership, so they have created a stable, dependable product platform utilizing quality manufacturing with redundant capabilities. Sometimes customers require a product or solution that does not exist on the market today. That is why STANLEY offers a customized integrated solution, project management and engineering support to help bring their vision to life.

Eurodesigns is an authorized distributor of STANLEY Access Technologies products and solution under STANLEY Security Middle East. We have trained and certified technicians by STANLEY to install, and maintain STANLEY automatic and ICU doors. For further detail please contact us.

Dorma was a German company that produced door technology systems and allied products. It merged with Kaba Holding in September, 2015 and became part of Dormakaba Group. Dorma introduced its services in the Middle East market in early 1970s but started its full fledge operations in 1996.

Being one of the first multinationals in the field of door hardware, entrance systems, interior glass systems & movable walls; Dorma immediately became the preferred partner for Architects & Consultants in construction industry. This helped us give a remarkable success in almost every iconic project in the Middle East from Burj Khalifa to Al Faisaliyah Tower, Qatar Convention Centre, all major airports amongst many others.

Now they are proudly offering the infrastructures that are efficient and convenient. That seamlessly and safely controlled. That gives you a feeling of security and trust.

Kaba headquartered in Switzerland, started their operations in Middle East in 2005, focusing on access control, physical access systems (turnstiles, speed gates etc.) and master keyed systems.

The two companies (Dorma & Kaba) announced the merger in April 2015 creating a new industry leader – Dormakaba, becoming one of the top three global companies for security and access solutions. The merger has opened excellent opportunities for customers to source a new comprehensive range of products and services from a single source thanks to complementary portfolios, value chains and geographical presence in all major markets globally.

Eurodesigns is the authorized project partner of Dormakaba in UAE. For further detail please contact us.
